Profile:

Bryan Acklin joined Andrews Myers as an attorney in November 2021. His practice is devoted to business litigation and construction-related litigation matters. He has participated in over 75 trials during his career.

Prior to joining the firm, Bryan founded his own civil litigation practice. He was also an assistant district attorney in the Harris County District Attorney's Office, where he gained vast experience in jury trials, representing both the county and the State of Texas over the course of four years.

Affiliations:

State Bar of Texas
Houston Bar Association
Houston Young Lawyer's Association

Representative Experience:

- Successfully represented a client in district court, drafting and filing an answer, including a cross-claim, and handling all matters related to discovery, the outcome was the plaintiff's agreement to non-suit her case.
- Represented a client sued by the State of Texas in an asset forfeiture case, handling all matters related to discovery, including defending client's depositions, and achieving a successful resolution for the client.
- Successfully represented clients in mediation.
- Managed discovery in civil suits as the plaintiff and as the defendant. Cases included breach of contract, civil asset forfeiture, and other tort claims.
- Successfully represented an expelled college athlete in a Title IX hearing.
- Successfully represented a client accused of defrauding the Texas Health and Human Services in an administrative proceeding, obtaining a finding of no liability.
- Successfully represented a client who had been terminated from the Houston Independent School District and denied the opportunity to be rehired. The outcome permitted the client to be rehired and resume coaching and teaching duties.
